

Your Community Has a Housing Plan. We Help You Deliver On It.

re:Main Communities is a bespoke platform that aligns property owners, community stakeholders, developers, and mission-aligned investors to turn your community's housing vision into homes.

The Problem

Housing production is a systems challenge. Zoning, political will, land ownership, developer capacity, stakeholders and financing must move together. In many communities, those pieces operate in silos. Without active coordination, even well-designed housing policies fail to produce results.

Our Solution

re:Main activates the housing pipeline by turning policy goals into development-ready opportunities, strengthening community understanding and support, and aligning the private-sector partners required to deliver new homes.

The Program

Community Hub

A branded online hub that positions your municipality as a Housing Leader, surfacing opportunities for property owners, local builders, and mission-aligned investors — and demonstrating to residents that you're delivering.

1

Stakeholder Engagement & Messaging

Translate complex policy into clear narratives that build public trust, grow pro-housing coalitions, and sustain support through the full arc of reform, continuing through construction.

2

Community Diagnostic

A comprehensive regulatory health check that evaluates zoning, permitting, and local development conditions to identify the key barriers limiting housing production and highlight practical opportunities for reform.

3

Developer & Investor Matchmaking

We connect development-ready sites and interested property owners with qualified developers and mission-aligned investors to move projects toward permitting and construction.

4

Turn Housing Plans Into Homes on Your Community's Terms

Jonathan Berk, Founder & CEO, re:MAIN

jonathan@remainplaces.com

remainplaces.com